EARHART HAS PUBLIC SOME-WHAT 'IN AIR'

Aviation's First Lady Resting From Her Record Breaker

Los Angeles, Jan. 14.—(AP)— Amelia Earhart Putnam held her ariminded public somewhat in the air today as far as her immediate flying plans were concerned.

America's "first lady" of the air, travel weary from her epochal solo flight across the Pacific on the lonely Honolulu-to-California line, and her leisurely jaunt down the coastline from Oakland to Los Angeles yesterday, made this much known:

She was "tired."

She wanted to take off for Washington, D. C.

She directed her ocean-spanning monoplane serviced.

She wanted to sleep.

That was the last heard of the touselled-headed aviatrix late last night when she left the Union Air terminal to Burbank, forced because of bad weather reports to cancel for the time being, at least, her trip to the nation's capital.

Wait Orders

Airport officials poured gasoline into the plane's tanks, serviced it completely, and awaited either Miss Earhart's reappearance at the field or further directions.

Repeated inquiries from attaches at the airport brought this laconic answer:

"No, we don't know where Miss Earhart is or what she plans. We are just waiting."

The blonde Amelia cruised down to Los Angeles from Oakland yesterday in three hours and seven minutes, hoping to find favorable weather conditions to continue by the southern route on to Washington.

Reports of a blizzard in the vicinity of Flagstaff, Ariz., however, terminated this plan for the time being, and whether she would take off today was something to be decided later.

"I had my heart set on going to Washington," Amelia sighed. She tried to smile, and an effort it was. She looked tired.

News that the noted flier was heading to Los Angeles yesterday from Oakland spread quickly and fully 2,000 admirers were at the Burbank field when she brought her ship to a stop.

Waving at the crowd and hurriedly tugging a comb through her rumpled locks—she said:

"I didn't expect anyone to be here."

George Palmer Putnam, wealthy husband of the flier who kissed her goodbye when she took off from the Honolulu field to accomplish what no woman had ever done and what no one had ever done alone, was reported hurrying to the United States by boat to rejoin his wife.

Miss Earhart's departure from Oakland was delayed when her ship, loaded to capacity, with gasoline, bogged down on a soft spot at the end of the runway. A tractor pulled it out of the mud after two trucks failed.

BANK-INSURANCE CO. LOOTERS PUT ON TRIAL TODAY

Alleged Conspirators Are Brought to Courts by a Confession

Chicago, Jan. 14.—(AP)— Four men who are charged with the larceny of $54,438.28 from the Amalgamated Trust & Savings Bank of Chicago, in what the state's attorney's office has branded as the inaugural step in a scheme to loot a large insurance company and several banks, were to go to trial today in criminal court.

Joseph Biata, who has served time in Atlanta federal penitentiary for his manipulations in a Massachusetts bank of which he was president; David H. Barry, tavern proprietor and erstwhile boxing referee of Dempsey-Tunney "long count" fame; Abram Karata, Attorney; and Otto Van Derk, young bank clerk in the Amalgamated, who was responsible for disclosure of the plot, were to appear before Chief Justice Denis E. Sullivan.

Assistant State's Attorney Vernon Thompson said he expects the case to require from ten days to two weeks for trial. The state, he said, plans to present about thirty-five witnesses.

Ambitious Plans

The state has charged that the four men under indictment for larceny planned, with three others who are named with them in a separate conspiracy indictment which is not ready for trial, to loot the Amalgamated and, with the funds thus acquired to gain control of the Abraham Lincoln Life Insurance Co. of Springfield, Ill., and loot its treasury from within. Then, Thompson said, they had in mind going to Indianapolis and gaining control of several large banking institutions in that city.

Gustav Lindquist, former president of the Abraham Lincoln Life Insurance Company, is a fugitive from justice. He has been indicted for conspiracy along with Hayden Sanders, former treasurer of the insurance company, and L. W. Ehlers, who, Thompson charged, was set up by Biata as a "dummy" broker to handle financial transactions for the alleged conspirators.

Plot Upset by Clerk

Thompson said the plot was in full bloom when it was upset by young Van Derk, who confessed to police that he had been "covering" checks for Biata in the records of the Amalgamated bank, where he was employed. Van Derk, the prosecutor said, has indicated that he will testify for the prosecution.

Van Derk became implicated in the larceny, according to Thompson, when he went to the loop tavern of Biata and Barry to apologize for returning to them an "N. S. F." check a few hours before sufficient funds to cover the deficit check were deposited in the bank by Biata. Biata, the prosecutor said, was the one who testified for the prosecution.

Four State Wards Ordered to Menard After Conviction

Four Dixon state hospital patients were found guilty by a jury in the circuit court this morning of the robbery of the home of Mrs. Margaret Baird, north of the city on Forrest avenue on December 8. Attorney Harold Nims was appointed by Judge Albert H. Manus to represent the quarter.

Mrs. Baird, Dr. Warren G. Murray, managing officer of the institution; and Sheriff Ward Miller testified at the trial. Dr. Murray testified as to the ages of the four youths, their mental ages, and stated that all were of the mental defective type and were feeble minded patients.

The petit panel reported for duty this morning and a jury was selected to hear the case of the four state hospital patients. Judge Manus excused the jury until Wednesday morning at 9:30.

Whether You are "Dr. Jekyll" or "Mr. Hyde" Depends on Amount of Oxygen Intake, Professors Prove

Chicago, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Simply by thinning out your normal oxygen intake, scientists say, they can change you from a "Dr. Jekyll" to a "Mr. Hyde" and make you believe 4 times 4 equal 12.

Citing extensive studies completed by Drs. Ernst Gelhorn and Irwin G. Spiessman of the University of Illinois College of Medicine staff, Dr. Maurice B. Visser, head of the university's physiology department, said today that even a condition of mild oxygen deprivation such as aviators experience profoundly influences hearing, vision, and equilibrium.

Amelia Earhart Putnam, famous woman flier is shown above as she landed her plane at the Oakland, Cal. airport, Jan. 12, completing the first solo flight ever made from Hawaii to the United States. ## JO DAVIESS CO. FARMER STATE'S 1934 CORN KING

Awarded Title at U. of Ill. Farm and Home Meeting

Champaign, Ill., Jan. 14.—(AP)— C. J. Simmons, Stockton, Jo Daviess county, was named the new "corn king" of Illinois here today as the thirty-seventh annual Farm and Home Week opened at the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois. Farmers, wives and agricultural leaders gathered from all parts of the state with an attendance of 3,000 or more expected here.

Simmons won the title when he took grand championship over all other adult and junior exhibitors with 10 sample ears of Illinois corn.

He showed a sample of Will County Favorite, utility type, which scored 78.3 points out of a possible 100 on germination, general appearance and confirmation.

Virgil Beckerman, Mt. Carmel, was named "corn prince" of the state. He took grand sweepstakes prize on ten-ear sample over other exhibitors in the junior classes. His sample of white utility type corn scored 74.1 points.

Ravages of the 1934 drought and chinch bug damage, which combined to make the season one of the poorest for corn growing in history of the state, were reflected in the corn show when central Illinois relinquished major honors to the northern and southern parts.

SENATOR'S WIFE DEAD

Washington, Jan. 14.—(AP)— Mrs. Lynn J. Frazier, wife of the senator from North Dakota, died at a hospital today from influenza complications.

She was 58 and had been ill only a few days. She was taken to the hospital Thursday. Funeral services will be held here Wednesday afternoon.

Quality Good

Despite the poorest growing season in history, the quality of corn in this year's show was surprisingly good, according to J. C. Hackleman, superintendent. Farmers found some encouragement in this report as they prepared to face within the next few months a serious seed grain situation.

Grover C. Leopold, Mt. Carmel, had the new grand championship peck of shelled seed corn.

In addition to winning the grand championship and the "corn king" title, Simmons took honors on ten ears of yellow corn in adult classes, while the award in junior classes went to Ivan Taylor, Cuba, J. R. Rice, Blue Mound, had the championship ten ears of white corn, adult class, while Beckerman, new "corn prince," took this award to his honors in the junior section related, used the threat of

Dr. Wynekoop Made Plea for Rehearing

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 14.—(AP)— In a rehearing petition filed with the Illinois supreme court, Dr. Alice Wynekoop of Chicago today contended that she was deprived of her constitutional rights of liberty without due process of law in the trial that ended with her 25-year prison sentence for the murder of her daughter-in-law, Rheia.

The claim was made that the supreme court, in upholding the conviction at its last term, "either inadvertently overlooked or misconstrued the points relied on by the plaintiff in error for a reversal" in that it did not consider whether the third statement made by Dr. Wynekoop after her arrest had been free and voluntary.

TWO MUST FACE SERIOUS CHARGE IN EAST MOLINE

Youths, Caught in Chicago, Admit Parts in Holdup There

Chicago, Jan. 14.—(AP)— Two youths in custody of Chicago police today will be returned to East Moline, Ill., to face charges of a hold-up and the assault on a woman who later died. Police Chief Thomas J. Schafer of East Moline announced.

Frank Kelly, 19, and Russel Farago, 20, were arrested with three other youths as holdup suspects, and the detective bureau said they had confessed parts in the holdup of an East Moline tavern, in which the wife of the proprietor, Mrs. Veronica De Caestecker, 52, was beaten about the head.

Mrs. De Caestecker and her husband resided the youths when they entered the tavern Oct. 17, demanding money. The woman died Oct. 30.

The husband, Louis, accompanied by Chief Schafer and Mayor C. F. Carpenter of East Moline, identified Kelly and Farago yesterday. Officers said the pair insisted Mrs. De Caestecker was struck by William Alexander, 19, who was shot by police Friday night as he dove through a window of his home when police came to arrest him.

Detectives also held Samuel Elashik, 45, after Kelly accused him of furnishing guns for the gang and planning the robberies.

Seek Authority to Use Road Money for Any General Purpose

Waukegan, Jan. 14.—The Lake county board of supervisors has initiated a move to have the legislature amend the law so counties which wish can use road refunds due them for general purposes when needed for such as greater than for road use. Lake county is $400,000 in debt for current bills and has about that same due in road funds which cannot be used for any other purpose. With taxes as high as possible and taxable valuation due to be reduced at the quadrennial revaluation this year, the outlook for future revenue is not good unless there is a new source like the road refunds. A committee will go to Springfield to present the matter to the governor and legislature soon. There are probably numerous other counties in the same fix as Lake to which the road refunds would be a great aid and which would be glad to aid the movement when it is presented for consideration.

-- FEARS: SUICIDES --

Pittsburgh, Jan. 14.—(AP)— Her nerves shattered, police said, by two kidnapping attempt by persons who signed themselves "the Black Paw," 18-year-old Helen Adams has killed herself.

With the pistol her father bought to protect her against her persecutors, the girl shot herself in her suburban Milltown home yesterday.

The father, Louis Adams, told police that one evening in April, 1932, two men accosted the girl, bound her wrists and gagged her, but were frightened away before they could carry the girl off.

Later a note was found, which read:

"Be careful. We are after your daughter which means death."

It was signed "the Black Paw." Still later, the father said, there was another kidnapping attempt and another "Black Paw" note.

JUDGE WITNESS IN HEARING OF ATTY. PIQUETT

Refutes Part of Testimony of Dillinger Lawyer Today

Federal Building, Chicago, Jan. 14.— Judge William Murray of Crown Point, Ind., took the stand for the government today in the trial of Louis E. Piquett, attorney for the late John Dillinger and charged with conspiring to harbor the gangster after his escape from the Crown Point jail.

The judge, called as a rebuttal witness, denied statements attributed to him by Piquett in early testimony.

The judge said he had had a conversation in regard to Dillinger with Piquett but that he had not said that if the gangster would surrender and was tried before him and given a death sentence that he would commute it to life imprisonment because he personally did not believe the hoodlum was guilty of murdering a policeman in a bank robbery.

When court opened Piquett, still on the stand in his own defense, denied he had had any part in arranging for plastic surgical operations whereby Dillinger altered his appearance.

After Judge Murray's brief appearance, court recessed to consider the defense's move to reopen the testimony.

This was allowed by Federal Judge William H. Holly, and the government presented P. F. Pomroy, an attorney associated with Piquett in the Dillinger case, who testified that he had heard Piquett say several times that he favored the gangster surrendering.

Editors of Fourteen College Papers Reply to William R. Hearst

New York, Jan. 14.—(AP)—The editors of fourteen college newspapers today issued a statement terming William Randolph Hearst's criticism of radicalism in the colleges as "the vanguard of Fascism in America."

Mr. Hearst is a menace to the academic freedom which students and faculty have fought so many bitter struggles to preserve, the statement read. "Mr. Hearst declares that he is seeking to keep the mind of youth 'clean and wholesome.' We contend that he is advocating the academic goose-step."

The editors characterized the recent investigation of radicalism by the Hearst newspapers as an attempt to stir up a "red scare."

Among those signing the statement was S. Ben Lieberman, editor of the Daily Illini, University of Illinois student publication.

Exploiter in Jail, Prison Next Stop

Chicago, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Oscar "Big Boy" Francis Drake, millwright, M. Hartzell, exploiter of the myth-waited in a cell today to be taken to Leavenworth penitentiary.

A ten year term was assessed Hartzell when he was convicted in Iowa federal courts of using the mails to defraud investors with myths of acquiring part of the legendary Drake estate from the Bank of England.

When his $25,000 appeal bond lapsed at midnight Saturday, police arrested Hartzell and placed him under constant surveillance lest he take his own life, a move authorities though he hinted in a statement that he would "never be taken to Leavenworth."

EVIDENCE IS HIGHLIGHT OF TRIAL TODAY

Handwriting Experts Also Have Inning on the Stand

By WILLIAM A. KINNEY (Copyright, 1935, by The Associated Press.)

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 14.— A Bronx dress model today identified Bruno Richard Hauptmann as a man she saw shadowing Dr. John F. Jafes, Condon before he paid the $50,000 Lindbergh ransom.

A handwriting expert declared handwriting evidence against the German carpenter was "irrefutable, unanswerable and overwhelming," and a second expert added the weight of his own opinion to this testimony.

Miss Hildegarde Olga Alexander, the dress model, said she saw Dr. Condon on a night in March, 1932, in a telegraph station and another man, behind him, obviously watching him.

Man Was Hauptmann

"I say the man was Bruno Richard Hauptmann," she said.

The girl was the second witness of the day in Hauptmann's trial, in which he is charged with the kidnapping and murder of Baby Charles A. Lindbergh Jr. Her testimony was offered in support of Dr. Condon's own story in which he said Hauptmann was the mysterious "John" to whom he paid the $50,000 ransom for the baby.

- MESSENGERS QUIT -

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 14.—(AP)—The entire corps of telegraph messenger boys carrying newspaper copy at the Hauptmann murder trial, struck for more pay today shortly before court convened.

The spokesman for the group of twenty youngsters, Bartels Heasoner, was immediately discharged by the company employing him, but the others, undaunted, won an agreement from the wire managers to hold an arbitration meeting this afternoon after court adjourned.

The managers said "it will be adjusted" and indicated that increased pay would be provided.

The boys explained that they were being paid one dollar during the day for eight hours work and $1.50 for the same period at night. One company, they complained, was deducting eight cents a day for the cost of uniforms.

The lads said they would decide what increase they would request before the meeting.

"After they've taken out the eight cents for our uniforms," said one of the boys, "We make about ninety-two cents a day. It isn't right."

down her identification, Edward J. Reilly, chief of the defense staff, charging:

"I want to prove that she was never there."

Nevertheless, she left the stand still insisting that Hauptmann was the man she saw. She said she also saw him on the street a few days after the incident in the telegraph station.

Defendant Flushed

Hauptmann turned red when she spoke his name. Mrs. Anna Hauptmann, wife of the accused man, paled.

Miss Alexander is 26 years old, chic. She took the defense by surprise, revealing on redirect questioning that she had been requested by the state not to publicize her knowledge.

Eldridge W. Stein, second of the state's battery of hand-writing experts, had sufficient time before the noon recess to declare it his opinion that Hauptmann wrote every

One of the 14 ransom notes received by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh after his baby was stolen on March 1, 1932.
The first expert, Albert S. Osborn Sr., was on the stand early in the day's session. He reiterated his opinion that Hauptmann wrote the notes and answered the question of "why?" with:
"Because the evidence is irrefutable, unanswerable and overwhelming."
To See Fisch's Scrip
When he left the stand his cross-examination by Rely was only partly complete, the defense attorney reserving the right to cross-examine him on writings of the dead Isador Fisch. The state has promised to produce these writings for a few hours.
Miss Alexander said she saw Hauptmann watching Condon in a telephone office in the waiting room of the Fordham station of the New York Central Railroad.
She fixed the time as sometime between the time that she learned Dr. Condon was the ransom intermediary and the time it was announced the money had been paid.
"Who else was in this station besides you and Dr. Condon?" a prosecutor asked her.
"I saw a man looking at Dr. Condon," she said.
Saw Man Later
She explained the man was 10 to 15 feet away, and said she saw him again a few evenings later.
"Was there anybody else in that station besides Dr. Condon and this man and yourself?"
"There may have been but I didn't notice anyone particularly."
"Who was the man you saw in that station watching Dr. Condon and whom you saw a few nights afterwards walking down Fordham Road?"
"I saw the man was Bruno Richard Hauptmann," she testified.
She testified her attention was attracted to the man she identified as Hauptmann in the telephone office by "the fact he was very obviously watching him (Dr. Condon) very significantly."
When Rely cross-examined her she slightly embarrassed the state by testifying she had no escort the night she saw Hauptmann and Dr. Condon. When the question was asked Attorney General David T. Wilentz offered to furnish the name of the escort to the defense.
Wilentz Misinformed
"The state would have furnished us with the name of a non-existent, fictitious person," Rely complained. Wilentz said he had been misinformed.
Rely questioned her closely on the railroad lines running through the Bronx and defended his right to inquire along this line with the assertion:
"I want to prove that she was never there and that she doesn't know the lines that run through there, although she has lived in the Bronx all her life."
Eldridge W. Stein of New York, taking the stand after the Bronx girl, added his opinion to Osborn's—that Hauptmann was the writer of the 14 ransom notes.
Osborn, who had already asserted he was positive Hauptmann wrote the notes, today gave the murder jury the result of further study of the notes and of Hauptmann's admitted handwriting.
"Based upon your examination and comparison," Assistant Attorney General Joseph Lanigan inquired, "can you say who wrote the ransom notes?"
"Yes."
"Who wrote them?"
"In my opinion, Bruno Richard Hauptmann wrote them."
"Why do you say so?"
Evidence Overwhelming
"Because," he answered, "in my opinion the evidence is irrefutable, unanswerable and overwhelming."
And with this the state turned its expert over to the defense for cross-examination.
Rely, chief of defense counsel, returning for the third week of the trial with a bad cold, indicated immediately with his first questions that he intended to challenge Osborn's dictum the evidence was "unanswerable."
He mentioned numerous letters in the ransom notes which were not included on the expert's charts and introduced what purported to be the handwriting of the dead Isador Fisch.
Hauptmann claimed it was Fisch who gave him for safekeeping the ransom money which was found in his Bronx garage.
Rely contended, in answer to the state's objections, that it was his right to test Osborn's credibility with the handwriting of anybody, living or dead.
Under the attorney's questioning Osborn found there was "a general resemblance" between a "y" purported to have been used by Fisch and a "y" in the nursery ransom note, but he added:
Fisch's Writing Different
"The writing is very different. They are not sufficiently alike that I would say they were by the same writer."
The witness admitted that a particular "s" taken from Hauptmann's admitted writing was not much like a particular "s" selected from one of the 14 ransom notes. He defended his conclusion, nevertheless, saying "my opinion is not based upon any one comparison."
When Rely contended the expert's chart showed evidence that ransom note letters had been copied, Osborn retorted: "You are misinterpreting the physical evidence."
"That is your opinion," the attorney said testily.
"No," corrected Osborn, "my business."
Clash Over Compensation
The witness and attorney clashed another time over the compensation Osborn expected from the state for his labors. He declared there had been no arrangement, but said he had confidence in the state of New Jersey.
The effort of the defense to connect Fisch was the second of the trial. It emphasized, while cross-examining Dr. Condon the hollow cough of the mysterious "John," who Dr. Condon said was Hauptmann. Fisch died in Germany of tuberculosis. Hauptmann said Fisch gave him the Lindbergh ransom money which was found in his Bronx garage following his arrest last Sept. 19.

BANK-INSURANCE CO. LOOTERS PUT IN TRIAL TODAY

"Influence" to get the boy's job to coerce Van Derk into falsifying the records on a second check which was sent to the bank the next day when there was not sufficient balance in the account of David H. Barry, Inc., to honor it.
Van Derk, after covering checks totalling the amount named in the indictment, walked into detective headquarters and confessed what he had done in order to, he explained, clear his conscience before he got married.
Exposure of the plot had immediate reverberations in Springfield Lindquist at first cooperated fully with the authorities, then disappeared and has not been found.
Harvey B. Hill, former president of the insurance company and chairman of the board, who had not been implicated in the plot, committed suicide under mysterious circumstances.
on the various township collector's books was started this morning in the office of County Clerk Sterling D. Schrock. Six assistants were engaged in preparing the books which will later be turned over to County Treasurer Walter Ortleson.

"Who was the man you saw in that station watching Dr. Condon and whom you saw a few nights afterwards walking down Fordham Road?"
"I saw the man was Bruno Richard Hauptmann," she testified.
She testified her attention was attracted to the man she identified as Hauptmann in the telephone office by "the fact he was very obviously watching him (Dr. Condon) very significantly."
When Rely cross-examined her she slightly embarrassed the state by testifying she had no escort the night she saw Hauptmann and Dr. Condon. When the question was asked Attorney General David T. Wilentz offered to furnish the name of the escort to the defense.
Wilentz Misinformed
"The state would have furnished us with the name of a non-existent, fictitious person," Rely complained. Wilentz said he had been misinformed.
Rely questioned her closely on the railroad lines running through the Bronx and defended his right to inquire along this line with the assertion:
"I want to prove that she was never there and that she doesn't know the lines that run through there, although she has lived in the Bronx all her life."
Eldridge W. Stein of New York, taking the stand after the Bronx girl, added his opinion to Osborn's—that Hauptmann was the writer of the 14 ransom notes.
Osborn, who had already asserted he was positive Hauptmann wrote the notes,

MY VISITOR

By Joseph Fort Newton
N old woman stood at my door asking for a few pennies, her bent back telling a tale of unending labor, her hands thin, worn, blue-veined, and rough with toil, yet patient and gentle.

She spoke with an accent not easy to follow, but her voice was soft, even sad, and her face had more pathos in it than belongs to one mortal life, telling of the harsh attrition of generations.

It was a face moulded after a noble design, a broad forehead, a mouth firm, drooping yet tender; a face in which Nature, the great tragic artist, had carved the sorrows of a whole race.

Its chief feature was the eyes large, dark, haunting, a little dulled by the film of age, as if the vision were inward rather than outward; eyes that brooded over their own depth, and saw things far away.

Where did you come from? she was asked. She named the country whence she had been brought as a girl, and one saw in fancy a little curly-headed child, gay and fond of games, full of life.

How old are you? She knew she was over sixty, thought not exactly how much. For there is a merciful law whereby, if life becomes too bitter to be borne, it dulls off into callousness and we forget.

Are you married? That was a story for she had had many marriages, but none that had lasted. But for some years now she had been alone, and she desperately lonely fighting against heavy odds.

One heard echoes of hard blows of fists and fate, of fewer hopes and less joy, of moving often as evictions threatened; of life ebbing away until nothing was left but the struggle for food and shelter.

Any children? Yes, she had had children, and had seen four of them die. She thought three were still alive, but God knows where they are. They had left a lonely old mother to drift about the world.

Ah me, what anonymous misery there is all about us! Plotsman on the social tides of a great city. One helps a little, but it seems so little. Why should old mothers be begging bread at the door?

Son of Former New York Woman is Wed to Spanish Infanta

Rome, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Prince Alessandro Torlonia, son of the former Elsie Moore of New York, and Infanta Beatriz of Spain, daughter of former King Alfonso, were married today in Rome's magnificent old church of Jesus.

They were surrounded by the scions of Europe's proudest royal families during the ceremony. Hundreds of guests jammed adjacent streets to catch a glimpse of the bride but she entered the church with a rear door.

The wedding was performed by Cardinal Pedro Segura, exiled Cardinal Primate of Spain. First among the guests in the royal pews were King Victor Emmanuel III of Italy, Queen Elena and the princes of the House of Savoy.

Former King Alfonso of Spain headed the procession of the blood of the Bourbon family who gathered to see their young relative wed. Other royal houses represented were those of Bavaria, Orleans, Braganza, Greece, and the French Bourbon branch, with a sprinkling of Hapsburgs.

SALADS GAIN IMPORTANCE IN WINTER DIET

They Are Needed For Vitamins And Minerals

By MARY E. DAGUE
(NEA Service Staff Writer.)

Never get the idea that a crisp fresh salad of raw greens dressed savorily can't hit the spot as unerringly on a winter evening as on a summer one. Matter of fact, in winter when fresh vegetables are fewer, the green salad has even more of a mission as far as minerals and vitamins are concerned; appetite appeal too.

Lettuce, given the proper care, is the perfect salad foundation—but scorn not endive, chichory, watercress, celery, cabbage, romains, or even the tender young leaves of spinach, for your well-seasoned modern salad bowl over the polished surface of which the garlic bud has so often been rubbed.

The true salad is made only of uncooked fruits or vegetables. When other materials are used, the dish becomes something else and furnishes food value in terms of calories as well as vitamins and minerals.

Often, a fruit salad can be made almost entirely of odds and ends of fruits that otherwise might go begging. One orange, one banana and two pears or any equal quantity of fruit will furnish enough salad for four persons, while used alone the fruit would be inadequate for a meal.

Deux fruits salad is the invention of Joan Crawford. The actress admits this salad is her sole culinary accomplishment.

Deux Fruit Salad

Eighteen large stewed spiced prunes,
2 large tart apples,
Mayonnaise,
Grated yellow cheese,
Crumbed Roquefort cheese,
Lettuce.

When you stew the prunes add an inch thick stick of cinnamon and three or four whole cloves. Cook the fruit until tender but not the least bit soft and mushy. When cool remove pits, leaving the prunes as whole as possible. Peel apples, cut in quarters and remove cores. Then cut in thin slices. Dip apple slices into mayonnaise, and then into crumbled Roquefort cheese. Dip prepared prunes into mayonnaise and then into grated yellow cheese. Arrange on individual salad plates on leaves of crisp lettuce. Serve with thin brown bread and butter sandwiches.

The cheese adds protein to this salad so if you want to try a vegetable dinner you will have a well balanced meal.

Cream of Lima Bean Soup
2 cups dried lima beans,
2 tablespoons butter or other fat,
1 small onion,
1-2 cup diced celery,
1 cup cream,
1-4 teaspoon pepper.

Soak lima beans in cold water to more than cover for six hours. Cook in this water, adding 1-4 teaspoon soda after water begins to boil. Boil five minutes. Drain and rinse in cold water. Melt butter in soup kettle, add onion finely chopped and cook until a pale straw color. Add celery and beans and boiling water to cover and simmer until beans are very tender, about 4 hours. Rub through a coarse sieve to remove the skins of the beans. Reheat with cream, salt and pepper and serve very hot.

Two Addresses of Interest Given at Woman's Club Saturday Afternoon

A large and interested audience was at the meeting of the Dixon Woman's Club Saturday, Jan. 12th, to hear the program sponsored by the American Citizenship Department.

The chairman of this department, Miss Vera Mae Poole, introduced H. A. Hanson, head of the Department of Public Relations of the Illinois Northern Utilities. His subject was "White Ants."

He said, "This is not a talk on entomology, but one on Communism." He continued as follows:

"One of the most grave situations confronting the American people today is the increasing agitation for socialism in this country and the growing popularity of some of its milder applications. Some of the agitation is clearly recognized as red propaganda, but much of it is less so, and in accordance with the purpose of the socialists, deceives the unsuspecting."

"The activities of the Reds are very suitably illustrated by white ants. These little animals subvert on wood, and are noted for their method of obtaining it. As a vast and efficient organization they attack a wood structure and eat away the wood from within each timber, being very careful to keep from eating through to the light. Entire buildings have been known to collapse, when to the observer they appear strong and normal, because white ants have hollowed out every support and left only a shell in place of the apparent strong timber."

"The method of socialistic attack is self-styled 'boring from within.' An effort is made to secure the cooperation of an individual in certain organizations and through him feed literature to the other members. This spokesman has socialistic tendencies and does all in his power to promote the cause. The organizations thus are those whose purpose fit in with the program of 'gradual socialization' even though they do not agree with the ultimate objectives of the Reds."

"The investigations conducted by Congress in 1926 and 1930 gave indication of the extent of these activities. The radical organizations in the United States that direct the work have interlocking directorates the members of which are appointed by the Third Internationale of Moscow. The more violent radicals in the country number about 60,000. This does not include those who subscribe to socialism in its milder forms."

"All forms of communism are in range on individual salad plates on leaves of crisp lettuce. Serve with thin brown bread and butter sandwiches.

Cream of Lima Bean Soup
2 cups dried lima beans,
2 tablespoons butter or other fat,
1 small onion,
1-2 cup diced celery,
1 cup cream,
1-4 teaspoon pepper.

Soak lima beans in cold water to more than cover for six hours. Cook in this water, adding 1-4 teaspoon soda after water begins to boil. Boil five minutes. Drain and rinse in cold water. Melt

Rub through a coarse sieve to remove the skins of the beans. Reheat with cream, salt and pepper and serve very hot.

He made a plea for all members of the Woman's Club to take an active interest in all ordinances passed by the city council and to make suggestions and criticisms for the same and their enforcement. "Public officials are not the masters, but the servants of the people," he declared.

Mr. Tyler spoke of the police department and its functions. He praised the Dixon police and fire departments and paid a high compliment to Dixon's very capable and efficient police chief, J. D. Van Bibber.

Of Chief VanBibber, Mr. Tyler said, "I have made it a point to call upon police departments in many cities in the state of Illinois to talk over with them their problems, their solutions and so forth, and it is my opinion that in no city in this state is there so able, so faithful, so efficient a police chief as our own Mr. VanBibber. I have been proud to associate with him officially these last two years and I know that as long as Mr. VanBibber is in charge of the police work in Dixon it will be in excellent hands."

Among other subjects touched upon were those of automobile parking, juveniles, economy, fire hazards, in alleys and streets where they tend to hinder the passage of the fighting equipment, etc.

"Gambling among adolescents or juveniles is shown by the crime records at St. Charles school for boys and at Joliet penitentiary to often be the start of a career in crime, and what is seemingly innocent gambling may have vicious results," Mr. Tyler stated.

Commissioner Tyler declared that the local liquor dealers were cooperating with him to the fullest extent, that they carefully observed the closing hours and allowed no minors, drunkenness, gambling or disorder, and that even now, with no ordinance to regulate them since the filing of the referendum petition last Friday, the dealers were strictly observing the old law until a new one can be inaugurated, even though they are not required to by law.

Mr. Tyler also stressed the need of cooperation between the Commissioner of Public Health and Safety, which is the post he holds, and Parent-Teachers Associations, Boy and Girl Scout organizations, the Woman's Club and all civic bodies, in order to develop the right attitude toward good government and civic consciousness among our young people.

The Art class will meet January 21st with Miss Hitchcock. Mrs. E. E. Wingert will give a paper on "Romantic Period in Art."

Mrs. O. F. Goeke extended an invitation to the members of the Woman's Club to attend the Parent Teacher meeting on January 16th. A social hour followed. The hostesses were Mesdames L. W. Miller, Young, Lennon, Hobbs, Lancaster, Philpott, Leake and Miss Burnham. The next meeting will be on January 26th. Mrs. J. F. Young will talk upon Human Nature in the Bible.

Dixon Girl Is Bride In Pretty Parsonage Wedding

REMEMBER, THE PUBLIC DEBT IS YOUR DEBT
You owe $385.
You don't? Oh, yes, you do!
That's your share of the $48,000,000,000 debt of the federal, state, and local governments of the country.
You may think you're square with the world and owe no man anything, but you're not—so long as these public debts continue to mount. It's a claim against everything you own or ever hope to own.
The federal government debt is now about $28,000-000,000 (it will soon be $34,000,000,000) and local governments owe some $20,000,000,000. Nobody else is ever going to pay it but you.
But it isn't so bad. If you were a Britisher, you'd owe $991 in the same way. If the World War had gone on another year, you'd probably owe more than you do now.

Treasury figures reducing these debts to terms of the individual citizen are fortunate, because they bring home a thing that people are apt to forget about public debts.

Really, there isn't any such thing as a public debt.
A public debt is simply a collective debt of all of us, and as long as it exists, no man is debt-free.

Do you own a home? It isn't debt-free, even though you've paid for it in full. Have you money in the bank?
It isn't solely yours—the public treasury has a potential claim for $385 against it.

Do you draw wages or a salary? It isn't all yours for certain until these public debts are paid.

We're too apt to think of the public treasury as some sort of inexhaustible fountain pouring out gold from a mysterious source. There's nothing mysterious about it. It all comes out of your pocket, and the pockets of your neighbors.

And that's true quite regardless of what kind of taxes is used to raise the money. Income taxes, tariff levies, production taxes, sales taxes, gas taxes, cigaret taxes, amusement taxes, liquor taxes—they all come from one source in the long run—the only source there is—the pockets of the people who work to produce either goods or services.

All that is not saying the money shouldn't be spent.
The best authorities agree that the country collectively can carry a far heavier debt than we are now carrying.
Probably it must.

But every man, woman and child has a direct interest in seeing that the money is well spent and that we get something of permanent value for the money.

That is one of the principal thoughts behind the president's plan to spend it for productive work rather than just dishing it out. It's not how much you spend—it's what you get for your money.

So the next time you hear of a billion-dollar appropriation, think to yourself, "That's $8 out of my trousers pocket. Is it worth it?"

... WHICH IS ABSURD?
In the days when we struggled through geometry, we all met that method of disproof which led up to a final conclusion "... which is absurd."
The kind of dictatorship which insists that people shall have only such plays, books, movies, and newspapers as the rulers believe are best for them, always runs afoul of these absurdities in wholesale lots.
Two shining examples recently cropped up. In Russia there was a public scandal over the fact that a radio station was caught red-handed broadcasting "negro spirituals! Somebody saw insidious counter-revolutionary propaganda in the haunting melodies and sweet chords that had wandered so far from their home in the Old South.
And in Germany, a movie film, which was immensely popular in Germany in 1926, is today barred as "not coinciding with world philosophy of the present day in Germany." It was Charlie Chaplin's "The Gold Rush!"
If a man is a political dictator, he inevitably thinks he knows better than the rest of us what we ought to see and read, and hear. Which is absurd.

GAG RULE TO GO
It is encouraging to note that the gag rule which has stifled debate in Congress on legislation sponsored by the administration is to be withdrawn, and that discussion is to be as unhampered on this as on other forms of proposals.
An administration that tries to railroad through its laws without affording any possibility of argument on the floor of Congress is one that doubts its own actions and fears the consequences of unchecked questioning. It is a dictatorship only less apparent than that of Germany or Italy or Russia, but almost as dangerous in its implications.
So long as there is a semblance of a minority in Congress, that minority should be provided all avenues of attack on whatever proposals the administration and its majority membership may offer. Only in this way can people of the United States be assured of a fair and orderly solution to their legislative problems.

The right to equality of defense is a principle which no nation can deny to another.—Capt. Tamon Yamaguchi, Japanese naval attache in U. S.

(READ THE STORY. THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)
"How can we put legs on that man? I'll gladly do it, if I can," said Scouty, as he eyed the snow man. Doty scratched her head.
And then she said, "It can be done, if we just build another one.
This one's all right, but I'd prefer a better one, instead."
"And, so would I," cried Coppy.
"Geel! It really wouldn't surprise me a bit, if one with legs would walk. It's worth the try, I think."
"Let's tear our first man down and then work hard and build him up again. If we all lend a hand, I'm sure we'll do it in a wink."
Wee Duncy then took one long jump and gave the big snow man a thump! He crumbled to a mass of snow, and looked an awful sight.
"Now, make the legs first. Make them fat," said Windy. "Where's the snow man's hat? Without one he won't catch a cold, and that would be a fright."
"A snow man catching cold? Ho, ho! That just shows how much you don't know," said Goldy. "Why, he's freezing now. It doesn't hurt at all."
"Be careful, when the body's rolled. Make it real strong, so it will hold. If it's too large for those fat legs, right over it will fall!"
Soon they were ready for the head and little Doty smiled and said, "Let's give our friend a real long nose and funny, squinting eyes."
No sooner was the head on tight, till all the Times got a fright. The snow man stretched a little bit and started heaving sighs.
And then he moved and loudly cried, "I'll take the two girls for a ride! He grabbed them in his arms and started running 'cross the snow."
"Come, after him," cried Scouty.
"Say, we cannot let him get away.
It's up to us to follow him, no matter where he goes!"
(The snow man takes a flop in the next story.)

DAILY HEALTH - ACCOMPLISHMENT -

COMPATIBLE EATING
The obligation of health education is not only to instruct in "what is what," but also to disabuse the mind of the public on "what is not."
An outstanding gastro-enterologist recently remarked, "I often meet patients who have been trying to cure themselves by not eating proteins and starches at the same meal.
It seems to me that if the Lord had wanted us to eat that way, he would have revealed the fact to us a few thousand years ago. It would seem too, that only an ignorant person could take stock in such a theory, because anyone who knows anything about metabolism and diet knows that when one eats meat alone, one is partaking of material, half of which acts as a carbohydrate in the body."
This observation clearly cites the essential nonsense of so-called compatible eating. Most of the common foods which we eat — meat, eggs, fruits, bread, etc.—in that they are derived from living matter, must of necessity contain an admixture in varying proportions of the three basic food elements, protein, fats and carbohydrates.
"But," we can fancy someone protesting, "I know of cases where following these bizarre diets has led to much relief." The answer to such a protest is that where relief was gained, it was by virtue of the foods that were given up, rather than the way in which they were combined.
This situation with regard to the alleged benefits derived from "compatible diets" is comparable to that witnessed in a number of so-called reduction cures. The purchaser of the cure is given a bottle of pills and with it a diet list. If the patient takes the pills and follows the diet list he is bound to reduce. But he credits the reduction, when it takes place, to the pills, forgetting that it was really the restricted diet that did the job.
Safety in diet lies in variety. Unless there are good reasons to the contrary, one should eat different foods in such wide combinations as habit, taste, experience and knowledge counsel.

TO PREVENT COLDS
By DR. WILSON G. SMILLIE
Professor of Public Health Administration, Harvard University School of Public Health
How can we prevent a cold?
Since we know that colds are catchive should have a suitable temper-ture to much relief." The answer to who have an acute cold. This is particularly important during the first three days of the disease.

Some exposure is unavoidable.
There are a few simple rules to follow, however, which probably aid in preventing colds, even if one is exposed. The rooms in which we live should have a suitable temperature and humidity. The super-heated air of an office or apartment may reach a temperature of 80 degrees. The air becomes as dry as that of the desert so that the membranes of the nose and throat become parched and cannot perform their normal protective functions.
This condition predisposes to colds.
Are Wet Feet Harmful?
The body surface should be kept warm and dry. If the skin becomes chilled, one is apt to catch cold. Mothers worry when their children play in the snow or rain and get their feet wet. Wet feet are not harmful so long as the child is active and exercising, but if a person sits quietly in school or office all day with wet feet, the body surface becomes chilled, thus predisposing to a cold.
Many people believe that alcohol is of value in preventing colds.
When one is chilled, alcohol does give a feeling of warmth, but caus-loss of heat. If one is continuously exposed to the cold, as on a long drive in freezing weather or working all day in the cold rain, a series of drinks of whiskey may do real harm. When one finally comes in from a long, cold trip, however, all wet and chilled, shivering and cold, and does not need to go out any more that day, a reasonable drink of alcohol is of definite value in bringing about a rapid flushing obtained, though somewhat more slowly, with a hot mustard foot bath and a drink of hot coffee.

DIXON TEAMS BUSY DURING COMING WEEK

Hospital Bachelors Play Married Men Thursday

Three games out of town and three at home will occupy the attention of Dixon basketball teams this week.

Belers-Knacks night is the main drawing attraction to Commercial league patrons, Tuesday night. The two quintets will battle before the employes of both firms and a large crowd of interested citizens, some hoping that defeat of the Knacks will throw the race into a four way tie for first place. The preliminary will be waged between Ashton and the I. N. U. aggregations.

Bachelors vs. Married Men.
On Thursday, January 24, the Dixon State Hospital Single Men's quint will tackle the Commercial league patrons, Tuesday night. The two quintets will battle before the employes of both firms and a large crowd of interested citizens, some hoping that defeat of the Knacks will throw the race into a four way tie for first place. The preliminary will be waged between Ashton and the I. N. U. aggregations.

YOUTHS LEAD LOS ANGELES GOLF FIELD

Old Veterans Trail In First Round Pairings

Los Angeles Country Club, Los Angeles, Jan. 14.—(AP)—The old masters of golf were trailing the youngsters as the third round of the Los Angeles open got under way today.

Vic Ghezzi, Deal, N. J., added a 71 in the second round Sunday to his first round of 68 and moved out in front of the crack field with a 36 hole total of 139. Johnny Revolta, Milwaukee, Wis., was on his heels with a total of 140 a 72 yesterday added to a Saturday 68.

These 23-year-old Italian boys faced the grueling final 36 holes today with some of the best shot makers in the business trying to blast them from the pinnacle.

Trailers Given Hope.
The stars in the rear were reassured to some extent by Bob Jones' classic observation many years ago that almost all the contestants "blow" in the third round and those who do not "blow" then, do in the fourth.

Willie Goggin, San Francisco pro, was in third place with 70-71-141 as the final day's cannonading started, and Al Krueger, Beloit, Wis., a baseball pitcher turned golfer, coupled a pair of 71s as did Paul Runyan, diminutive P. G. A. champion.

Gene Sarazen scored another 72 and at 144 was in the best position of the old guard of golf. Horton Smith and Jim Fougarty, a couple of Missourians, were in the same bracket with the former American and British open champion.

Dutra Needs 73.
Olin Dutra, current open champion of the United States, needed 73 strokes in the second round and had a two round total of 145, while MacDonal Smith, veteran Scot and four times winner of the Los Angeles Open, started the third round with a score of 146.

Some well known players could not make the qualifying grade for continued competition. Craig Wood and Willy Cox were among the stars eliminated. Walter Hagen just did slip in.

Five amateurs joined 45 pros for the final day's play. Dan Erickson, Los Angeles, led the Simon Pures with 145 for the first two rounds.

Pair of Illini Cage Stars Lead Big Ten

Chicago, Jan. 14.—(AP)—A pair of Illinois sharpshooters, Frank Froeschauer and Bob Riegel, were running one-two today in the Big Ten basketball scoring race.

Froeschauer had helped the Illini in their three games with 33 points, three more than his sophomore teammate. Sid Rosenthal, one of the league-leading Iowa stars, was third with 27 points.

The leaders' conference games only:

	TP	PP
Frank Froeschauer, I. Ill.	33	3
Bob Riegel, I. Ill.	33	4
Sid Rosenthal, I. Iowa	27	6
John Barko, I. Iowa	26	2
Norman Cotton, I. Purdue	25	2
Ivan Blackmer, I. Iowa	21	5
Bob Kessler, I. Purdue	20	1

A. A. U. PROMISED DEVELOPMENT IN 1935 OUTLOOK

Creation of Many New Districts Looked For

(Note: This is another of an exclusive series, written for the Associated Press, by national sports leaders and dealing with the New Year's prospects.)

President, Amateur Athletic Union of United States.

New York, Jan. 14.—(AP)—At the beginning of 1935 the outlook for the continued growth and influence of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States is most promising. This is properly so, because a study of the purposes of its creation and organization, of the things for which it stands, of the people who conduct its affairs, of its plans and accomplishments must inevitably lead to the conclusion that the A. A. U. has an important and permanent place in America to fill.

During the New Year it is proposed to create a comprehensive plan for reorganization, involving the creation of many new districts throughout the country. Reducing the districts of larger size to small areas or to the state as a unit, will give better opportunities for more intensive athletic development and greater and numerous chances to organize athletic clubs in sections of America where there now is no athletic competition, particularly for the boy and girl out of school or college.

Fewer Opportunities.
Then again, in many cities, such as New York, strange as it may appear, there are fewer opportunities for athletic exercise and track and field competition for the boys and girls than there were many years ago.

It is the scheme and the plan of the A. A. U. to develop interest in the neighborhoods, and to make greater effort to take care of the physical bringing-up of the boy and girl who is anxious for athletic competition. It is the hope that in these charge of the armories, private play fields, private athletic grounds and other places where there are facilities for exercise and competition will throw them open for open athletic competitions in the interest of the athletic development of the youth of the land.

HAWKEYES MEET GOPHERS QUINT FOR LOOP LEAD

Iowa Favored to Trim Northerners' Five This Evening

Chicago, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Iowa's surprising five and Minnesota's still somewhat mysterious team will battle tonight for the leadership of the Big Ten basketball race at Minneapolis.

Iowa, leading with three straight victories, most impressive of which was Saturday's 38 to 35 decision over Northwestern at Evanston, is the choice. Minnesota, which conquered Michigan Saturday, 31 to 24 in its opening conference game, can assume first place by knocking Iowa over.

Purdue, tied with Illinois and Wisconsin for third place, meets Northwestern at Lafayette, while Michigan tackles Wisconsin and the Illini play Indiana at Bloomington. Saturday's schedule has Indiana at Iowa, Michigan at Illinois Minnesota at Chicago and Wisconsin at Northwestern.

Wildcats Most Difficult.
By downing Northwestern, Iowa got past probably the most difficult number on its schedule. The Hawkeyes do not meet Purdue, Illinois and Wisconsin, leaving them a strong title outlook. The rest of the Iowa schedule, including tonight's tussle, lists two games with Minnesota, two each with Michigan and Indiana, and one each with Northwestern, Chicago and Ohio State.

Purdue remained in a challenging position by trouncing Chicago, 39 to 21 at Lafayette. The Bolshaker regulars built up a safe lead in the first half and reserves finished the game. Frank Froeschauer and Bob Combs went on a scoring spree to give Illinois a 44 to 23 victory over Ohio State, scoring 30 points between them. Wisconsin abandoning the deliberate offensive game that held Purdue to a one-point decision and accounted for a 16 to 9 victory over Northwestern, turned on the steam to defeat Indiana, 30 to 23, at Bloomington.

Billiard Star Here Tomorrow

Charles Seaback

Those desiring to receive free billiard lessons should not fail to witness the exhibition of Charles Seaback, one of the best known billiard instructors in the country, who is scheduled to appear at John Valle's Hub parlors at 10:00 P. M. on January 15 in connection with the National "Better Billiards" program sponsored by the National Billiard Association of America. During his engagement here Seaback will demonstrate and teach the fundamentals of the game and will give a special exhibition of fancy shots. This invitation is extended to women as well as men.

While Seaback has never won a major American title at the game at which he is so adept he has succeeded in winning the Canadian championship and the title of Eastern Sectional Winner.

During his career as a billiard player he has been more interested in instruction work than in competitive playing of the game. After coming to America, from Syria his native country, he first became interested in billiards in Lawrence, Mass., where his father established a billiard room. After attending high school he started playing at the age of 15 and it was not long before he won the title of New England States Champion which he held on three different occasions.

In exhibition games he has scored a high run of 210 balls and in 1919 broke the world's record at that time when he ran 68. However, since that time the record has been set at 126 by Ralph Greenleaf.

One of Seaback's most exciting games was against the well-known Erwin Rudolph. They were playing for a side stake of 200 points. Rudolph missed after scoring a total of 197 while Seaback had but 88. After Rudolph missed, needing but three points to win, Seaback came back with a run of 112 to win 200 to 197.

Colorful Beiers-Knacks Night Will Eclipse Old King Arthur's Chivalry

Warriors Will Become Polite Under Polo 'Ref's' Tutelage

Chivalry! Constructed in modern terms it may mean the gallantry of a young man who offers his lady friend a cigarette, or perhaps a cocktail.

In King Arthur's day it meant something else. It meant consideration of the conqueror for the vanquished, martial valor, dexterity at arms, and honor, fair play, according to the rules of the game.

If Sir Marvin Johnson of Polo, has anything to say about it, the joint celebration of Knack-Beiers night will be a chivalrous one, at least in the high school gymnasiums where the two rivals match points, basket for basket in a Commercial league cage feature, before a rabid crowd of employes from both sponsoring firms.

Outclass King Arthur.
No tournament of King Arthur's day was ever fought without a few preliminaries leading up to the main show. Nor will these be lacking when the knights of Ashton clash with the rival Yellowjackets from the Dixon State Hospital.

Just in case the contestants forget their knightly manners, and model their engagement after Nero's Roman circuses instead, Sir Marvin has been chosen to observe the battle from a neutral's viewpoint.

Thunderous applause is expected to greet Sir Potts as he leads his gallant Beiers band against the enemy. Sir Johnson's decisions are calculated to remove the necessity for soldierly armor. At any rate Ye Beiers do not appear to need any. Their speed is guaranteed to keep their gaudily uniformed Knack foes skipping at a merry pace.

Viking and Giant.
Sir "Smoky" Joe's charges are not disheartened by the prospect of a stiff joust however. The fiery-haired manager of the Knacks battalion promises to unhorse a few men of the Beiers from their lofty steeds of confidence. He will unleash an angry Viking fury into the battle. This blond Swedish streak, completely muzzled last week, is reported to have flung off his shackles again. When on the loose, experience has taught him that all the king's horses and all the king's men cannot corral him. Then there is that giant of gargantuan proportions who devours tallies as rapidly as Sir "Smoky" can eat peas with his knife. His mouth is reported to be so large he can sing duets. He strides with the thunder of a behemoth, and as gracefully, but if he jumps he gets the tip.

No one can afford to miss this joust of the century, according to all who have seen other colorful games in the Commercial league. Rising gate receipts in the past few weeks indicate that few will miss it.

PREP GROUP BARS LACK OF GRID HELMETS

Chicago, Jan. 14.—(AP)—There will be fewer bare-headed youngsters playing on high school football gridirons next season as a result of action by the rules committee of the national federation of high school athletic associations.

Concentrating on the problem of further reducing fatalities and injuries to high school players, the committee, acting for 15,000 schools in 23 states, have set down new safety first rules.

Players will not be allowed to compete without helmets, shoulder pads or other protective equipment. Unkept playing fields must be improved, and more careful physical examinations must be passed by the youngsters.

No action was taken on a proposal to adopt the collegiate forward pass rule, requiring the passer to be at least five yards behind the scrimmage line when he lets loose. The federation adopted the professional ruling, permitting passing from anywhere behind the line of scrimmage, a year ago, and a mail poll indicated the coaches wished it to be retained.

The "unnecessary roughness" clause of the prep rules, however, was strengthened to give the passer more protection after the ball leaves his hands. It also was written into the rules that both teams may be liable to penalty if a foul is committed on the last down of a period. Formerly only the defensive team was liable.

E. A. Thomas of Topeka, Kan., was selected chairman of the rules committee, along with the other members of the body. H. V. Porter of Chicago, assistant general manager of the Illinois state high school athletic association, and H. L. Ray, Chicago football official.

RISK TO FIGHT IN CHICAGO SAY HIS PROMOTERS

Lewis Says New York Rumor Is False

Chicago, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Reports from New York not withstanding that Babe Risko, new sensation of the middle-weights will be fighting in Madison Square Garden about the same time, Promoters Jim Mullen and Nate Lewis announced today that he will do his battling in the Chicago Stadium the week of January 20.

It was reported last week that Risko, who bounced into the reviving fight business by mauling Teddy Yarosz, middleweight title holder, in an overweight match, had agreed to box in New York.

Lewis, however, said he had a signed contract with Risko, and would exhibit him in Chicago for the first time on the Tony Canzoneri-Leo Rodak card. Negotiations for the latter bout were expected to be finished up today and a date definitely set. January 25 was the original date, but Rodak, who outpointed Georgia Hanford at Los Angeles Friday, upset plans by demanding that Canzoneri weigh in at 133 pounds.

The weight question would be ironed out today, Lewis and Mullen, speaking as one declared.

Again speaking in duet, the promoters said they have no idea of matching Ray Impellitteri, an Italian even bigger than Primo Carnera, with Max Baer in one of their proposed to runders involving the champion, until he earns the chance.

"We also have Joe Louis' promise of two bouts in March," Lewis added. "One of them will be fought in the Stadium, and the other will be held in the Olympia at Detroit."

FATHER TIME WILL FIGURE WITH GIANTS

Terry Says Players Still Not Too Old to Play

New York, Jan. 14.—Old Father Time looms as the big question mark in the 1935 flag chances of the New York Giants.

If the man with the scythe deals gently with Bill Terry's aging infield, Polo Grounds customers playing for a side stake of 200 points, Terry means it when he says his current model will be his best since he took over the reins in 1932, but some of the less optimistic shake their heads when they glance at the ages of the infielders.

Dick Barrett, who comes over from the Phillies to play short, is the only member of the inner defense under 30 years old. He is 27.

Terry, the dean of the quarter, is 36. Hughey Critz will be 35 in September and Travis Jackson is nearing his 32nd birthday.

"That's nonsense," scoffs Terry. "None of us is as young or as spry as we once were but we can get around pretty well and I don't look for any one infielder to slip noticeably next summer."

Jackson Best Shortstop.
"Critz isn't through by a long shot. Jackson was the best shortstop in the league for 150 games and should be even better at third base where the going is easier."

"As for myself, I don't get the kick out of playing ball I once did and it tires me quickly, but I figure I can play a passable first base for another season or two if some kid doesn't come along and run me off my job."

Terry's legs may not be as nimble as a few years back, but his batting eye is just as sharp. Last season he rolled up an average of .354, second only to Paul Waner of the Pirates.

Although the Giant boss realizes a ball player's legs usually fall him long before his eye dims or his arm loses its snap, he is so confident his veterans will again come through and be in the thick of a three-club race with the Cards and Cubs that he is making no effort during the off-season to replace either Jackson or Critz—at least next season.

Cities having the lowest proportion street light bills have the highest number of night traffic fatalities, according to R. E. Simpson, of the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters.

The Ainu race, probable first inhabitants of Japan, has diminished to about 15,000, living chiefly on the islands of Yesso and Sakhalin.

Massachusetts' fire loss bill was reduced $6,624,719 in 1933 as compared with 1932.

NEW COACH AT NORTHWESTERN

BISHOP'S SON Filling Bill Required by Scott

Chicago, Jan. 14.—(AP)—The big frame of Lynn O. Waldorf has been fitted into Northwestern University's football coach pattern.

The pattern, laid out by Dr. Walter Dill Scott, president of the university, after the resignation of Dick Hanley, required, in brief, that the new football coach must be a scholar and a gentleman as well as a producer of good teams.

Waldorf, who gave Kansas State college its first Big Six conference championship last season, was selected Saturday as the man who fills the specifications.

Waldorf, a great tackle under John F. (Chick) Meehan at Syracuse in 1922-23-24, will assume charge of Wildcat football fortunes March 1. With him will come Burt Ingwersen, former head coach at Iowa and for the last three years assistant to Capt. Lawrence (Bill) Jones at Louisiana State University.

In accepting the Northwestern job, Waldorf asked that Ingwersen, a star lineman at Illinois, be named line coach.

Salaries Not Given.
Kenneth L. Wilson, director of athletics at Northwestern, did not mention the salary in announcing Waldorf's appointment. It is understood, however, that it will be in the neighborhood of $8,000 a season. Waldorf received $5,000 at Kansas State. In addition to Ingwersen, he will be assisted by Waldo Fisher, end coach, and Maury Kent, freshman coach, from Hanley's staff. Arthur (Dutch) Lomborg, basketball coach, also will be added to the gridiron corps.

Waldorf, the son of Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf of the Chicago Methodist Episcopal area, was graduated from Syracuse in 1925. He coached for three years at Oklahoma City University, during which his teams won 19 games, lost 9 and tied 3. He served in 1928 as line coach at Kansas University, but the next year became head coach at Oklahoma A. & M. His teams at the latter institution also were outstandingly successful, winning 34 games, while losing 10 and tying 7.

Although he asked that "last place" be reserved for Kansas State, at the start of last season, he produced a team that dethroned Nebraska as Big Six titleholder.

BOXING GRABS NEW SPOTLIGHT AT NEW YORK

Pirone-Dundee Winner Fights in Garden

New York, Jan. 14.—(AP)—The ground-work for two important boxing matches later in the season will be laid this week at Philadelphia and New York.

Vince Dundee of Newark, former middleweight champion, boxes Paul Pirone of Cleveland ten rounds at Philadelphia tonight. Madison Square Garden hopes to pitch the winner against Babe Risko, Syracuse belter who recently stopped Teddy Yarosz, kinsman of the division, in an overweight bout.

On Friday night in the Garden, Bob Olin, light heavyweight champion, tangles with Johnny Henry Lewis, Phoenix, Ariz. Negro contender, in a non-titular ten rounder. Should Lewis win or make an impressive showing, efforts will be made to rematch him with Olin in a 15-round championship match.

TWENTY GRAND AT LOW ODDS; SANTA ANITA

Old Turf Idol To Break Retirement Again

New York, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Surprisingly low odds on Mrs. Payne Whitney's Twenty Grand in the future betting on the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap show the esteem in which a sentimental turf public holds its idol of the past.

C. V. Whitney's Equipoise and Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane's Cavalcade are co-favorites at 3 to 1, but Twenty Grand's secondary favoritism at 4 to 1 is a remarkable tribute to a horse which has not raced for almost two years and has not yet proved his doubtful underpinnings can stand the strain of actual campaigning.

When Twenty Grand, Equipoise and A. C. Bostwick's Mat were making memorable the juvenile and three-year-old campaigns of 1930 and 1931, it was difficult to judge just which horse had the largest public following.

Twenty Grand Retired.
Later Twenty Grand was retired. Mate was the victim of a decline in racing prowess and only Equipoise remained as a successful campaigner to support his backers in their opinion he was the best of the trio.

With the announcement of Twenty Grand's return, the odds on his Santa Anita chance, first quoted at 20 to 1, dropped to 12 to 1, and in a few short weeks fell to 4 to 1. This indicates a heavy sentimental play on the big bay, though many expert horsemen who have examined him have pronounced him fit after excellent workouts on the coast.

Cavalcade's exploits, of course, are still fresh in the minds of his followers of last year. Mate is quoted at long odds in the Santa Anita ratings, but a few of his enthusiasts are predicting that his victory will be one of the major upsets in turf history. They rely on the fact his unsuccessful record in England was caused by extremely high imports, and that the light weight assigned him in the coast race will give him an opportunity to run his best.

REPUBLICANS TO COOPERATE IN CONGRESS

"Big Six" Will Hold Conference Each Week

By Florence Slown Hyde

Washington, Jan. 14—Undismayed by the fact that their small contingent may be regarded by casual observers as a mere remnant of the power wielded in national affairs by Illinois Republicanism since the days of Abraham Lincoln, the six Republican members of the lower house are taking up the tasks of the 74th Congress with an eagerness and zest befitting those on whom has fallen the mantle of a long line of distinguished predecessors.

The Illinois "Big Six" plan to work in close cooperation with each other and to this end will hold conferences at least once a week during the session. Thus far none of the six has announced a blanket policy on administration measures, each having declared that proposed legislation will be weighed on its own merits as the bills are presented for consideration.

Representative John T. Buckbee of Rockford (12th district) is dean of the Illinois Republican group, this being his fifth term. In this respect he has donned the mantle worn in the last session by Former Representative Fred A. Britten of Chicago, who after serving 11 terms was defeated last fall by a Democrat. "I realize the honor that is mine, but we are going to miss sorely the fine leadership of Fred Britten," said Mr. Buckbee.

As a member of the Republican Committee on Committees, Representative Buckbee has taken an active part in the fight to retain as large a G. O. P. representation as possible on the different committees. While Democrats hold 322 House seats as against 102 held by Republicans, leaders of the minority have pointed out that their candidates received 46 per cent of the popular vote in the last election. While members of the committee refrained from continuing it, it was said that the possibilities of filibustering and other obstructionist methods on the part of a disgruntled minority were stressed in arguing for a less sweeping than the 3 to 1 ratio which the Democrats have advocated as their own just due.

Representative Bertrand Snell, Republican leader, confirmed reports of compromise negotiations but the actual outcome of the controversy will not be known until the committee assignments are officially announced. Just when this will take place is still a matter of conjecture.

The three "freshmen" Republican representatives were virtually without a place to lay their heads so far as offices were concerned for the first day or two of the session. The law permits outgoing members to keep their belongings in the offices occupied during the preceding session until their terms end at noon on the opening day of the new session. This delays assignments and prevents new members from getting settled in advance, as many retiring members do not elect to move out a minute ahead of the required time. Uncle Sam pays the freight back home on the effects of outgoing members and allows them six months in which to take advantage of this generosity. Presumably this gives them a chance to find out whether they are going to stay on in Washington to fill a new government job or build a law practice here, or to go back home to remain until after the next election and perhaps the rest of their lives.

Friday afternoon found Representative Ralph A. Church of Evanston trying to handle correspondence from constituents, while filing cases were standing about on the floor and filing folders were piled high on tables and desks.

Rep. Dykstra of the 15th district received callers for a day or two in the office of his district neighbor, Rep. Everett M. Dirksen of the 16th district, while waiting to move into the suite assigned him.

Rep. Chauncey W. Reed of the 11th district did not get his office assignment straightened out until late Saturday afternoon.

All three of the new Republican members have offices in the old house office building, as does also Rep. Dykstra of the 15th district. Representative Buckbee of the 12th and Allen of the 13th have the same offices in the new building that they occupied last session, hence were well settled when Congress convened on Thursday of last week.

Rep. Allen expects to be joined by Mrs. Allen and their three children later this month, when the family will take an apartment for the duration of the session.

Rep. Reed will be joined by Mrs. Reed and their two-year-old daughter the last of the month, when they will come from their home in West Chicago, DuPage county. Robert W. Higgins, a young attorney from Joliet accompanied Mr. Reed to Washington as the latter's secretary.

ROOSEVELT TO GIVE CONGRESS RESPONSIBILITY

Solons Will Decide Percentage of Payroll Tax

Washington, Jan. 14—(AP)—Though President Roosevelt will lay a broad general program for social security before congress this week, congressional leaders understood he would place upon them the responsibility of drafting the detailed legislation.

Under this procedure, it will be left to congress to decide, for instance, whether the payroll tax to finance unemployment insurance will be three or five per cent, and whether the fund will be financed

Japan Bids for Flivver Dominion

Japanese flivvers will dot highways of the world if builders of the car shown here can make their vision come true. Apparently copied largely from an American make, the tiny machine, the Dai-Sun, will sell at a lower price than U. S. cars and is said to be already in the trial order stage in Czechoslovakia, Britain, and India, with an assembly plant planned in Australia. Prince Chichibu, eldest brother of the Mikado, is shown here at the wheel at the Yokohama plant.

entirely by employers or partly by employees.

Generally, it is understood on the Hill, the report of the committee on security which the president will lay before congress, will point toward a bill of the kind introduced last session by Senator Wagner (Democrat, New York) and Representative Lewis (Democrat, Maryland), on unemployment insurance.

Recommendations on old age pensions were being even more closely guarded. Speculation has centered on monthly pensions of $40, but there has been no reliable confirmation.

The report was said, however, to leave the door open to a system under which the government would pay either one-half or one-third of the old age pensions with the states paying the balance. Estimates of the cost for the first year vary from $75,000,000 to $100,000,000.

With additional proposals for maternity aid, health insurance, and annuity system for workers, the program was said to involve a long range plan which would not become fully effective for a generation.

Merit Badge Exhibit Promises To Be Big Event

Citizens of Dixon, particularly parents and friends of the Boy Scout movement are urged to buy tickets from scouts of the various Lee and Ogle county troops for the Merit Badge exposition which will be held in the Dixon Moose Hall, Saturday, February 9.

Each troop will hold an exhibit in a troop booth and a gigantic Court of Honor will conclude the day's activities in which badges for scout rank from tenderfoot to Eagle will be awarded deserving scouts.

Troops furnish own material

Materials for booths at the exhibition must be furnished by scouts of each troop. A detailed bulletin being issued each troop scoutmaster lists explanations regarding these materials.

All troops will stage a five or ten minute program of music, dramatic, reading, or other stunts, and ideas must be sent to Seth Foster, Rochelle as soon as it has been formulated.

Ed Clark, council Court of Honor chairman, will preside at that part of the day's program. A special award to the troop having the highest percentage of awards given at

KABLE BAND TO PLAY FINE MID-WINTER CONCERT

Excellent Program is Announced for Friday Evening's Event

Through the effort of the "Gold-brickers Club," a go-getter organization composed of members of Company "M" the 129th Infantry the famous Kable Bros. Band will present a concert in Sterling Friday evening at 8:15 at the Coliseum.

Captain Howard C. Bronson, conductor of this nationally famous musical organization, announces a program sufficiently varied to satisfy the most exacting seeker of good things musically, as well as entertainment. The heroic "Finale" to Tchaikovsky's "Symphony in B. Minor, Number Four" a delightful group of Hungarian airs and "Silhouettes" by Henry Hadley, will furnish the classical background for a program of band numbers, which includes a novel burlesque on the old favorite, "Hot Time" a humorous adaptation of "She's Comin' Round the Mountain" a new march, dedicated to Captain Bronson, written by Norman Hanley, Captain Bronson's own "Kablegram" march and the ever-new "Stars and Stripes Forever" by the immortal Sousa, with whom Captain Bronson traveled the length and breadth of the world for many years.

Few bands may boast of a finer staff of soloists than that of the 129th Band. Warrant Officer Gerald Huffman is one of the leading cornet soloists of the present day. Corporal Lee I. Douglas, piccolo virtuoso, has established a reputation equalled by few on this diminutive instrument. As a special feature, Captain Bronson will present Mr. Robert A. White, the well-known operatic basso cantante. Mr. White has been a principal with many of the leading light and grand opera companies, which have toured the United States, during the past twenty years. His radio programs have made his voice known to millions. A special feature of this concert will be the presentation of a lovely miniature revue, "Moonlight and Roses" featuring Miss Ruby Ballard, soprano, and Miss Keithra Palmer, danseuse.

The Kable Brothers 129th Infantry Band has been in continuous existence for nearly forty years. The band became the musical unit of the 129th Infantry in 1926. Since that time, every contest held at Camp Grant has been won by this great organization.

Captain Howard C. Bronson has been at the head of the organization since 1929, resigning from the Sousa Band to accept the position. Captain Bronson is a World War veteran, leading the famous 51st

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Sacrament" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, January 13.

The Golden Text was, "A new commandment I give unto you, That ye love one another; as I have loved you, that ye also love one another. By this shall all men know that ye are my disciples, if ye have love one to another" (John 13:34, 35).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Now when the even was come, he sat down with the twelve. And as they were eating, Jesus took bread, and blessed it, and brake it, and gave it to the disciples, and said, Take, eat; this is my body" (Matthew 26:20, 26).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Their bread indeed came down from heaven. It was the great truth of spiritual being, healing the sick and casting out error. Their Master had explained it all before, and now this bread was feeding and sustaining them. They had borne this bread from house to house, breaking (explaining) it to others, and now it comforted themselves" (p. 33).

HUEY IGNORES RADIO ORDER TO STOP TALK

Talks Fifteen Minutes Overtime Despite Attendants

New York, Jan. 14—(AP)—Advice to radio stations: Don't try to stop Huey Long when he's making a speech over the air; he'll keep on talking just the same.

The Louisiana senator started out Friday night on what was to have been a 30-minute speech about his "Share the Wealth" movement in which he heaped fresh criticism on President Roosevelt.

At the end of the half hour, station attendants signalled frantically that his time was up, but the Kingfish went right on with his speech.

"This is United States Senator Huey P. Long of Louisiana speaking," he announced and kept on talking for 15 more minutes. A musical program that was to have followed the senator was hurriedly sidetracked.

Long criticized the president for not ending what he called "The Roosevelt Depression." He said there is more unemployment now than ever in the history of the country, and asserted that in three years of experimentation by President Roosevelt the debt of the United States has increased to $28,500,000,000.

Field Artillery Band, with the rank of Lieutenant Band Leader.

One of the outstanding novelties of the concert will be the presentation of a miniature revue, "Moonlight and Roses," in which will be featured charming Miss Ruby Ballard, soprano and petite Keithra Palmer, danseuse, supported by Les Palmer and his rhythmic Ensemble. A special setting is used for this beautiful little act, as well as special sound equipment.

Using as a prelude, Lemare's "Andantino" which many will be surprised to learn, furnished the theme made so popular by the song "Moonlight and Roses," the band dies away to a whisper, the lights fade. From the darkness comes a fanfare and, as the lights grow brighter, an entrancing setting greets the eyes of the audience and beautiful Miss Ballard sings this ever-popular melody, as her charming partner, Keithra Palmer, presides a graceful original dance.
